About me

I am an ambitious person, who always gives his best, no matter what the challenge is.

Sportsman type - Passionate person

Thanks to my life passions, I have obtained various valuable character features, which come in handy in my everyday life.

Surely not self-centered. Always curious of the World and certainly positive person - with my mind open to the environment. :)

Scrupulous and accurate in all my doings; eager learner and willing to develop new skills, anytime.

I like having everything planned out and under control.

I am counter to being unconcerned and doing something half-hearted.

In motorcycle sport craft, I had the opportunity to work both on my own character and teaching others, by which I have earned precious interpersonal skills - such as correct psychological approach towards the other person.

My life motto is humility and hard work.

I am positive that everything stated above will certainly help me in the new industry.

I aim high - as always.
